DID YOU KNOW?

The Blade that changed how sport bikes were built

Aiming to create a high-performance motorcycle that could defeat its own RVF750 in Endurance Road Races, Honda developed an R&D project that led directly to the CBR900RR, in 1992. With 128 HP, it was not the most powerful of its time. However, thanks to a dry weight of 185 kg when all rivals were well over 200 kg, the first Fireblade, soon nicknamed "Blade" by the fans, was so easy to control that it seemed to read its rider's mind. More than 25 years after, the most powerful and nimble Honda bikes keep carrying the Blade legacy.

DID YOU KNOW?

What does HSTC means?

Since 1999, with the ST1100 Pan European model, Honda have equipped more and more of its motorcycles with a system called Honda Selectable Torque Control (HSTC). This system constantly monitors the speeds of the front and rear wheels via speed sensors incorporated into the Anti-Lock Braking System (ABS). When the rear wheel begins to rotate significantly faster than the front, the systems reduces fuel delivery to the engine, limiting rear-wheel slippage. In 2019 with the new CBR650R, Honda applied this technology to its mid-displacement Supersport motorcycle for the first time. The rider can deactivate it on demand.

DID YOU KNOW?

Is reliability supposed to be boring?

It's not rare to find some CB500 proudly boasting more than 300,000 km (more than 186,000 miles), but the long-time favourite of the couriers and the driving school is much more than a workhorse. Beginning in France in 1996, the CB500 Cup spread across Europe quickly. Since 2014, it is on CBR500R that young talents try to make a name by themselves, on a budget. Sebastien Charpentier or James Toseland, to name a few, started there.

DREAMS REALLY DO COME TRUE

Soichiro Honda said,

“There are qualities which lead to success.
Courage, perseverance, the ability to dream
and to persevere.”

Honda's philosophy in dreaming of a better world for people catalysed the invention of the ASIMO, HondaJet, NSX and the legendary Africa Twin. Dreams can be powerful, they push you to achieve more, to explore new ideas, new technologies and uncover new ways of solving problems. It takes independent thinking and audacity to pursue dreams. It also takes passion and innovation to never allow the dream to die and to shape them into a reality for the modern-day world.
